

RestoringVision: The following is a summary of our offering.

Reading glasses can be one of the easiest, most inexpensive ways of making people more productive(our estimate is 20% greater income capacity) and promoting economic growth in the developing world.

Again, my name is Steven Hancock and I am with Restoring Vision, the largest non profit provider of new, brand name readers and sunglasses(not for resale). We have a great deal of supply and are reaching out to organizations that may be able to use them. Please take a look at the following video:

It is amazing how many people benefit from a simple pair of reading glasses which restores their ability to focus close up. This can make the difference between holding a job and being a fully functioning member of a family or community. . The problem is massive(500M worldwide) but the solution is easy.

Please do not hesitate to contact me with questions/ thoughts.

Some additional benefits include:

Easy to implement for the novice, student, spouse-we provide dispensing tips and tools to make experience easy and rewarding. Our readers are sorted by power in 25 pair bags, a standard box would contain 400 low, medium, and high powers. However, we provide anything from 100 to tens of thousands of glasses to various partners.

Minimal Cost-these not for resale new, brand name glasses that we provide for 35-50 cents per pair.

A good source of information is our website listed below or please email or call me.

Best Regards

Steven Hancock
